START—

SUSAN: So we're both completely free.

DAVID: When was the last time that happened.

SUSAN: I went grocery shopping last night so that's done.

DAVID: I think I'll start putting up the bookshelves.

SUSAN: Oh don't, because if you start now there'll be a big mess all over the den this weekend for my sister.

DAVID: Your sister.

SUSAN: They're coming by Saturday to give us our anniversary present in person.

DAVID: Oh right.

SUSAN: She feels bad they couldn't make the party, they want to take us all out to lunch, and also at some point she and I have to talk about nursing homes for dad.

DAVID: Well maybe I'll head to the butcher, I was going to pick up pork chops.

SUSAN: You can do that later. We have this one chance, let's do something really special, like see the Egyptian tombs.

DAVID: I think that was just at the museum for the summer.

SUSAN: You're right. We blew it.

DAVID: We could get out the bikes. Or go to a movie. Or we could try having sex with other people. Or hey, did you want to look at dryers?

SUSAN: I know I complained about the dryer but it's working again so let's wait. Is there a movie you want to see?

DAVID: That thing about the soccer is supposed to be funny. What's her name is in it. Not Julia Roberts, the one who was in, you know.

SUSAN: The kids want to see that, let's wait and see it with them.

DAVID: Sandra Bullock.

SUSAN: We might go biking with my sister, I think they're bringing theirs.

DAVID: That'll be fun.

SUSAN: Maybe we should try having sex with other people.

DAVID: We'd talked about that.

SUSAN: If not now, when.

DAVID: Did you have anybody in mind?

SUSAN: Gosh, let's see, I saw Peter Hanson dropping off Chelsea.

DAVID: He was one of the nicest parents from play-group.

SUSAN: He's really fun to talk to and creative and friendly and he's got a great backside, I'd love to snuggle up against him.

DAVID: Well there you go. Hey was Maxine there too? She's got that deep voice, I really like that.

SUSAN: She had to dash off to work.

DAVID: Darn. Oh, I saw Kim Keeler dropping off the twins. She's really lively and she's in great shape.

SUSAN: Kim would be great, she has so much spirit.

DAVID: I'd really like to see her naked breasts up close and touch them.

SUSAN: You guys would be great, but I wonder if she's still around. Belinda's starting middle school today.

~~DAVID: Maybe her husband dropped off Belinda, what's his name, Carl.~~

~~SUSAN: Carl.~~

DAVID: Hey there's Peter Hanson. Go get him. I'll try to find Kim. See ya, Sooz.
