You'd think that a single guy with his own station would be sitting on top of the world. But see, I'm looking for the right girl. And I love lookin'. And it's costing me a fortune . . . a fortune! So, when you come in, I'm gonna do everything I can to make you a friend. I'm gonna wash your front window, your rear window, your side-view mirror, and check over your car like it was my own. I mean, do you know what it costs for dinner for two? Dancin', romancin'? You know, I think if I was married, I wouldn't have to work as hard. But then, I wouldn't be able to look anymore. And I love lookin'. So I can be very friendly!
