

Jenny

32.

ACT THREE

INT. HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM. DAY

Jenny is finishing her speech to the assembly of fellow Juniors-

JENNY

→ The thing is that through a series of kick-ass dances and... and I was thinking about trying to get some concerts, we can raise the money to get a great, like, great class gift for the school. Because we want to go down has having given the best gift in the history of Stonewall.

The teacher hushes from the side.

TEACHER

Time, Jenny-

JENNY

Anyway, put your check next to Jenny Smith.

(beat)

And we're gonna kick Riverdale's butt next fall!

Applause from the audience, including cat calls from the boys.

TEACHER

Okay, next up is Horace Allen.

Horace walks in. Horace is carrying with him a book. The teacher clicks the stopwatch.

Horace lifts the book into the air.

HORACE

This is our history book. It talks to us about how Christopher Columbus discovered America. This despite the fact that he never set foot on the continent, that he committed genocide, and was a slave trader. This despite the fact that an entire civilization lived here made up of people who, apparently, did not discover America.

(beat)

Jenny Smith is asking what we can do for Stonewall.
